True Family Heirloom - 1968 Pontiac Firebird 400
Some cars pass through life as simple transportation. Others become part of the family story.

This 1968 Pontiac Firebird 400, finished in its original Aleutian Blue, is very much the latter, owned by one family since new, lovingly preserved, and driven with pride for more than five decades.

Purchased in La Mesa in 1969, the Firebird has spent its entire life in San Diego, always garaged, always cared for. Only two drivers have ever sat behind its wheel: a mother who bought it new, and her son who inherited it and has driven it for the past 30 years.

The car carries that history with quiet dignity.

A Well Preserved Classic

The Firebird retains its original factory Aleutian Blue paint, a rare and desirable color that still presents beautifully. The Cordova vinyl roof has been professionally repainted, maintaining the car's period correct look.

Under the hood sits the iconic 400ci 4-barrel V8, paired with an automatic transmission, strong, smooth, and unmistakably Pontiac. The odometer shows 205,000 miles, all family driven.

Documented, Maintained, and Loved

This Firebird comes with its original manuals and decades of repair records, a testament to the care it has received. Several key components have been refreshed over the years to keep the car reliable and enjoyable:

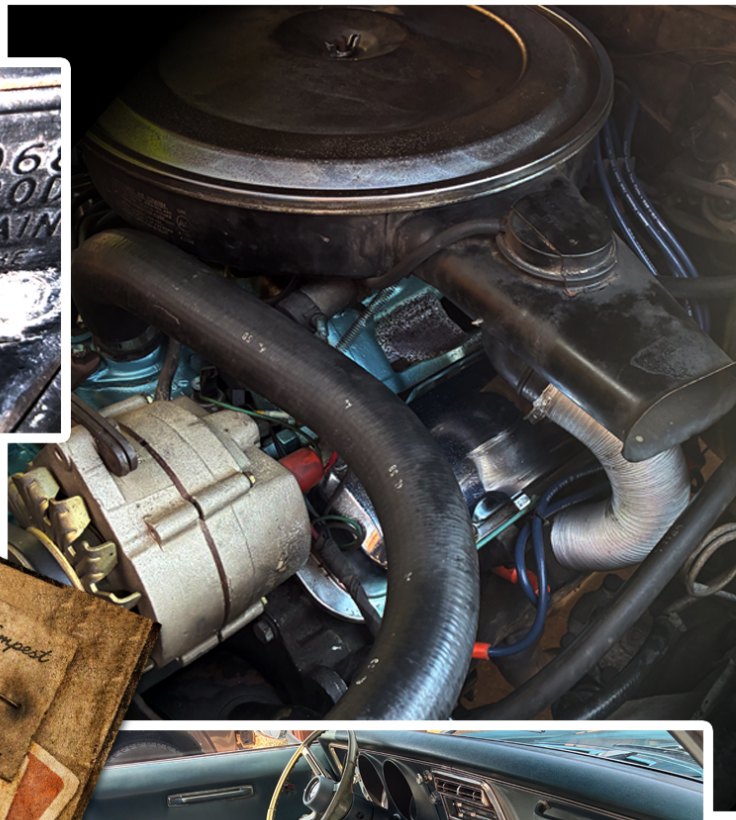

New Hankook tires installed just one month ago
Exhaust system replaced approximately 10 years ago
Suspension restoration completed around the same time
Air conditioning system replaced 5 years ago (original unit included in the trunk) Aftermarket stereo + SiriusXM, with the original radio preserved in the trunk.

A Seal Skin car cover, about two years old, is also part of the package - perfect for keeping the Firebird protected between weekend drives.
